Check in and feel at home: the Gstaad Palace has been welcoming guests from all over the world since 1913 as they enjoy its refined hospitality and stunning location overlooking the Swiss Alps

Right: the Gstaad Palace guarantees spectacular views with its alpine setting.

Opposite: (clockwise) enjoy elegant dining, understated luxury in the rooms and a relaxing Jacuzzi, or unwind in the inviting lounge of the Palace Spa

The glamorous Swiss setting, stunning views, unrivalled location and warm hospitality that the Gstaad Palace offers make this legendary luxury hotel undoubtedly unique. The third generation of the Scherz family continues to welcome guests from around the world, who savour its combination of alpine elegance and understated luxury.

Such qualities are apparent in its 90 rooms and suites. Whether it's stylishly decorated double rooms or the spectacular penthouse suite with three bedrooms, all are furnished with exquisite materials and to the very latest technical standards. Each offers a spectacular view over the Swiss Alps that's a treat in both summer and winter. While the snow-covered scenery and long slopes particularly delight during the cold months, first-class tennis tournaments and a large selection of recreational pursuits attract visitors during the warmer seasons.

The beautiful Palace Spa is a highlight at any time of year. Here it is all about feeling good and relaxing in style. The exclusive wellness complex offers eight treatment rooms, a private spa suite, saunas and steam baths spread over 1,800 square metres. Guests set off on a roughly two-hour journey of relaxation with the unique hammam experience. This takes you through six rooms and allows you to enjoy steam baths, massages and relaxation breaks. Visitors can relax outside in the Jacuzzi or swim their lengths in the Olympic-sized outdoor pool. Four tennis courts and a squash court are also available for sports enthusiasts.

The culinary diversity at the Gstaad Palace ranges from elegant dinners to informal socialising. How about a champagne truffle cheese fondue in the traditional Fromagerie? Or a meal in the award-winning Le Grill gourmet restaurant with 15 Gault Millau points? And a glance at the wine cellar is sure to get one or two pulses racing. After an exquisite dinner, the cosy Lobby Bar and elegant Bar du Grill are perfect for a drink. Night then turns into day at the legendary GreenGo club.

Guests also find an oasis of tranquillity at the Walig Hut. You can even stay overnight at this cosy Swiss refuge. Exclusive lunches and dinners for four to 14 people are also served here.

The Gstaad Palace has been leaving no wish unfulfilled since 1913. Anyone looking for something special, or who would like to experience something exceptional, need only ask our hotel team. And young guests are equally valued with a host of activities to entertain them. It's not surprising, since the hotel continues to welcome generations of the same families, who keep coming back to the five-star superior hotel. Whatever your age, the Gstaad Palace will create many happy memories for years to come. www.palace.ch
